

Refer Mark Feinberg or book him for a talk or podcast

Advisers send Mark clients who are selling a business, stepping down or leaving a big job. Event and podcast hosts bring him in to talk about those moves.

He coaches founders, business owners, senior executives and people near retirement before, during and after the big moves in their work.

Senior-level leadership roles at IBM and EY

Multiple-time founder with exits

CEO, COO and fractional executive roles

Topics for talks and podcasts

Before you sell: what owners don't plan for when the business stops being theirs

The bigger job without the authority: leading when the board and the title don't match

Who you are after the title

To have Mark speak at your event or join your podcast, email mark@tamethenoise.com with the date, who's listening and the topic that fits.

How to refer a client

1. Send your client this sheet or the booking link below. They book the call themselves. When the form asks how they heard about Mark, they can put your name.
2. The first call is free and takes 20 minutes. Mark and your client talk through what's going on and whether coaching fits.
3. Mark tells you how it went only if your client says that's okay. Otherwise he keeps what they share private.

Book a free 20-minute intro call: calendly.com/mark-tamethenoise/intro-call · Talks and podcasts: mark@tamethenoise.com tamethenoise.com